Excerpt from the new version of the Doctoral Regulations of Technische Universität Berlin of 18 November 2020 and 12 May 2021, effective 25 June 2021, including the First Amendment of 24 May 2023, effective 07 August 2023:

§ 2 (2) sentence 2:

The focus of the dissertation depends on the doctoral degree: For Dr.-Ing., the focus is on an engineering science, for Dr. rer. nat., it is on a mathematical or natural science, for Dr. phil., the humanities or the social sciences, and for Dr. rer. oec., economics or business administration.

Please note: The focus of the degree qualifying the candidate for a doctorate is irrelevant here.

§ 4 (1) sentence 3:

The doctoral thesis must be supervised by a full-time professor, lecturer, junior professor, junior research group leader with a doctorate, or a permanent full-time “außerplanmäßiger” Professor at the faculty, while doctorates as described in Section 3 (7) require an additional supervisor who must be a professor at the relevant university of applied sciences; agreements to supervise must be submitted together with the candidate’s declaration of intent to pursue a doctorate.
