

Inn(t)o-the-green: Shaping the Landscapes of the Future. (6 LP)

Enough of sitting inside the university, talking about the problems of our planet, while they are already waiting outside to be solved by you?

Join our Projektwerkstatt: Inn(t)o-The-Green! Let's go out and apply your knowledge and skills with like-minded people in hands-on projects to find solutions for problems in a changing climate!

Where?

Take a rest from the city and get into nature! Next to weekly workshops at TU Berlin and self-organized group meetings, a beautiful area outside of Berlin is offering free space to learn about and test potential solutions for climate change's challenges – an open-air real-life laboratory instead of a lecture hall (+ a lake close by to rest after a long day of work).

What?

In project teams, you and your fellow students develop ideas in ecology, technology, sustainable management, or community engagement. From a permaculture gardening concept, over the implementation of a water and renewable energy systems to environmental education or community events while sharing the harvest: There's so much to do to face today's and tomorrow's challenges!

Projects this semester:

- Water management
- Spatial design & trailer renovation
- Biodiversity registry & enhancement
- Compost & bio digestion
- Syntropic planting
- Community building & engagement
- Your idea...?

How?

Access to various resources, including workshops and field trips. You will also have the chance to learn about the importance of cooperation and community building in sustainable living. Develop skills in communication, teamwork, leadership as well as project design and evaluation. As the challenges and solutions affect the whole planet, the common language will be English, and we wish to bring together students from different parts of the world to share their perspectives.
